"Gratitude is a fruit of great cultivation: you do not find it among gross people." (Samuel Johnson)

We have a rich heritage in our country. We know the story of the three-day celebration after the first harvest of those who had come ashore at Plymouth Rock. That celebration was held even in the light of the fact that half of their number had died during the winter. Many communities repeated the celebration each year. But, it didn't become a national holiday until President Lincoln, in the midst of the Civil War tribulations, declared it to be so. We can conclude that thanksgiving is appropriate, even necessary, when life's circumstances are dire and threatening. A "cultivated" people look beyond their troubles and are grateful for the blessings of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." True, our country is being tested and our society is in much disrepair. Yet, Thanksgiving Day gives us a needed time for remembrance and reflection.... YES, we have received so very much.

President's Corner

Our daughter graduated from college a number of years ago with an art major. She was required to do projects in various art forms. One project was a mosaic. She gathered a few hundred small stones of various colors. No two stones were identical. Each was unique in shape, size, and color. By grouping and arranging these stones according to color she created various sea creatures and other objects found in the sea. Collectively these small stones became a work of art.

When I think of our Day Makers Kiwanis Club I also see a mosaic. Our club is made up of approximately 75 members. Each member comes to our club with different combinations of interests, talents, abilities, and experiences. No two members are identical. Each member is unique. A few members group together to work on bicycles. Others group together to help Christmas Anonymous. Still others join together to help with CFR, Channel One, YCPO, or the Hockey Festival, and the list of projects goes on. Collectively as Kiwanians we, too, form a mosaic.

Last week at the subregion meeting at St. Charles our Governor Chuck emphasized that each Kiwanian is a leader. Each member can and should use his/her talents and abilities to "lead" in our own club. In the same way that individual stones collectively can make a piece of art, individual members collectively will make a vibrant Kiwanis club.

My challenge to each of you is to LEAD according to your abilities and interests in our Day Makers Club.

Member Salute! New Member, Gerry Wervyn

Gerry is an insurance agent with New York Life, and he loves the freedom it gives him to do things like joining a Kiwanis club that meets in the morning. He made a major career shift in February of this year when he left his position as a speech therapist with the Mayo Clinic because of increasing rigidity with health care rules. Beth, his wife of 19 years, is a former special education teacher, currently a stay-at-home Mom. Gerry and Beth have 4 children, ranging in age from 3 to 14.

Gerry and Beth spent 3 years in Milwaukee before moving to Minnesota. He went to school in Grand Forks and still has family living in North Dakota. Beth is from Grand Rapids. They moved to Rochester in 1992.

Gerry has always been active in the community, service-wise, and that is partially what attracted him to the Day Makers – community service is a priority and our values fit. In addition, the time of our meetings is a good fit with his work. Gerry has served as Chair of the Rochester Area Housing Council and has served on the Human Rights Commission and the Rochester Planning and Zoning Commission. He was introduced to our club by Pat Horlocker – a lucky happenstance when he delivered her newspaper on behalf of his son and they got to talking.

Gerry is a history buff, especially interested in U.S. Presidents, likes to read and write and has published a book about his grandparents who came from Norway. Be sure to give Gerry our special Kiwanis welcome – not only is he committed to service, but he helps bring down our average age!

Member Salute! New Member, Dick Odell

Richard has just retired from IBM after 36 years. While at IBM, he worked primarily as a new product planner and a competitive-performance analyst. He was able to travel extensively to over 58 countries giving presentations on IBM iSeries, System/36, 34 and 32 computers. He was a profession product presenter for IBM in Europe, Asia, South America, Central America and several other countries like Russia, Romania, Turkey, Pakistan, Botswana, Zimbabwe, South Africa, Lebanon, Israel, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Dubai, Abu Dhabi, Oman, Qatar, Bahrain, Sri Lanka, India, Iceland, and Australia.

Dick was born in Panama and lived his first 8 years in Central and South American countries. While he was growing up he lived in South Dakota, Georgia, Michigan, Ohio, Washington DC, Montana, Idaho, California and Washington state. He and his wife Deedee moved back to Rochester in 1981 with their two daughters, Suzanne and Jennifer. Deedee is very active as a director of church handbells and works as a piano sales rep for Hamilton Music on North Broadway in Rochester.

Dick's hobbies continue to include travel, digital photography, motorcycle touring and off-road ATV explorations. He looks forward to working with Kiwanis by using his computer, photographic and presentations skills to help spread the word about the good works of Kiwanis and encourage others to actively participate in community projects. He has basic computer skills, including PC, Internet and digital photography and is more than willing to help others who might just be beginning to use their PCs for email and the internet. Call him anytime (really ... he said this!). He also has access to...which is capable of hauling more than 6000 lbs of stuff (a diesel 4x4 truck and a 7'x16' enclosed cargo hauling trailer including pumpkins, George). Please welcome Dick Odell into the club – he looks like a great fit!
